

Each quiz requires fifteen responses, generally scenario based. The difficulty level of the quizzes are determined largely by the suitability of the equipment to the most likely youngest age group of users. In other words, a machine suitable for use by younger students will have quiz terms couched in language more suitable for young learners.
A user can select a supplementary voice over text to provide learning support. A summary report is delivered on completion of every quiz and any quiz can be redone an unlimited number of times until completed successfully. Because there can be no compromise on safety, a user is not deemed successful unless all questions are answered correctly.
